

Senior Development Designer

Innovative, creative & great to work with...enough about us, now what about you?

£Negotiable
Global Creative Hub – Leicester UK

Willson & Brown is a leading Pan-European business with an impressive track record of designing, creating, installing and supporting POS programmes. Established over 20 years ago, we now operate in over 65 countries and employ over 800 staff. Our state-of-the-art manufacturing plant is based in Warsaw, along with our head office and we have offices in Germany. Our Global Creative Hub is based in the UK at Friars Mill in Leicester. In September 2018, it was announced that Willson & Brown is to become part of Array Marketing, the world's premier provider of in-store merchandising services for the world's leading beauty retailers and brand manufacturers.

Right now, as part of our continued growth, we are expanding and strengthening our Design Development team. Which is where you come in.

We're looking for someone with commercial acumen who can hit the ground running to lead and take responsibility for large-scale projects. Most are for the world's leading beauty retailers and global cosmetics brands.

You'll work closely with the UK-based account management team and meet with clients to take detailed briefs which you will then answer with well-thought out design solutions that push creative boundaries, but which are practical to manufacture given the constraints imposed by timescales, budget, materials, manufacturing techniques and environmental issues.

It goes without saying that you'll already have a wealth of design development experience gained from working within the POS industry. We're expecting you to have a thorough knowledge of standard development design protocols as well as the materials and manufacturing techniques commonly used in retail cosmetics merchandising fixtures. You'll also need a good understanding of injection mould design and be a talented user of SOLIDWORKS, Adobe Suite and MS Office software packages.

Whilst we're looking for outstanding technical skills, we're also looking for someone who has the confidence to lead projects by making timely decisions as required and sensitively championing designs and specifications from concept through to production.

Clearly therefore you'll need to be a first-class communicator, especially as you'll be liaising with our project management and production teams in Europe and North America as well as with suppliers around the globe and you'll be creating and making presentations to showcase design concepts.

You'll report to the Head of Design and will be supported by a member of the design team, so if you have some experience of developing and mentoring others, so much the better.

If we've been describing you and you like the sound of joining us, we'd love to hear from you. Please send your CV with a covering letter to us at recruitment.uk@willson-brown.com

www.willson-brown.com

